Injustice will be meted out to Asharam Babu again- Who is responsible?

Ahmedabad, Asharam ji Babu, a distinguished spiritual leader from India, is presently lodged in the Jodhpur jail, because of false allegations made by the daughter of an ashram inmate. This ashram inmate was working as an administrator. The motive behind hatching this sinister plan was to usurp the entire property of Asharam Babu. As a part of this plan, the conspirators (which includes the ashram management and an inner circle of disciples) had identified couple of girls living in the ashram, hailing from financially weaker families. These girls agreed to make false allegations against Asharam Babu, his wife and daughter. The intention behind including the family members of the complainant was to ensure that eventually no family members of Asharam Babu remain onboard, as trustees. This would grant the conspirators unfettered access and control of the entire property and deal in the way they wanted to. (19-10)

Plenary IV: Building Resilient Global Value Chains

Ahmedabad, Developments in global trade have dominated headlines over the last few years and become an increasingly key imperative for governments and businesses all over the world to focus on. Given that Global Value Chains have played a key role in stimulating economic growth, boosting investments, creating jobs, and building further the respective strength of each participating economy. Despite the widely reported rise in protectionism and bilateral trade tensions, global trade of goods and services reached a record level of over 30 trillion dollars in 2022, signalling the resilient global demand. Trade in services has proven to be particularly resilient and posted an increase of 15% year-on-year in 2022 as compared to 10% increase in global goods trade in the same period. Investments have rebounded too, post the pandemic. Governments around the world have been proactive in reshaping supply chains by offering attractive investment schemes for investors. With this backdrop, while FDI flows dropped 17% post-pandemic, they recovered to pre-pandemic levels of 1.6 trillion dollars. However, despite the broader positive outlook, there are some global trends that require us to build resiliency into our global value chains as a priority. Bilateral trade tensions among major trading blocks having intensified leading to a reposition of rising tariffs and duties in 2022, signalling the recent military conflict led to a variety of restrictive measures which significantly impacted global supply chains. We are now at a point, where formal trade restrictions are estimated to impact 1.4 trillion dollars of trade among G20 countries. (19-10)
