ALUR (KURNOOL)

RESIDENTS and farmers in Alur mandal in the district are facing a lot of problems at the tahsildar's office as there is no permanent tahsildar posted after the transfer of tahsildar Hussain Sabheb on the charges of corruption seven months ago.

Even the deputy tahsildar Vijay has also gone on long leave due to political pressure mounted by various party leaders. A Revenue Officer (RI) and two to three Village Revenue Officers (VROs) are discharging responsibilities in the office. The RI and VROs are also not attending to the office as they are busy with the government assigned land resurvey works. The district administration on learning about the importance of tahsildar at Alur mandal office, has posted Mallikarjuna as in-charge tahsildar. In fact, Mallikarjuna is a regular tahsildar of Halaharvi mandal office. As Halaharvi is bigger mandal than Alur, Mallikarjuna could not attend office at least once in a week. The Alur mandal is the home town of Labour Minister Gummanur Jayaram. Hundreds of farmers and people visit the office every day and return after waiting till evening. The people are demanding the officials concerned to depute a regular tahsildar to Alur mandal office. One Mukkanna, a resident of Molagavalli village, told The Hans India that he has been coming to the office for the last three months to get pattadar passbook which were distributed to his sons. The tahsildar was never seen in the chair a day in the last three months. He questioned why the government is not posting a regular tahsildar instead of posting in-charges. Krishnudu, a resident of Kurukunda village in the mandal and a physically challenged person says the government has recently stopped giving pension to him on the charges of having 22 acres of land. He said the fact is that he does not have a cent of land. To rectify the error, I went to the office but the tahsildar was not seen, Krishnudu said and added that he has been getting pension from the age of 10 years and now he is 37-year-old. He demanded the government to either rectify the error or sanction the pension or accord pattadar passbook to the shown land of 22 acres. Telugu Nadu Student Federation (TNSF) Alur taluka general secretary Manohar Yadav said if the government could not post a tahsildar to Alur then it would be better to remove the office. The people and farmers of the surrounding villages are however taking a lot of pain to come daily to the office and later after knowing the situation they were visiting Kurnool collector's office and stay there till their work was done. He said it is very unfortunate that the home constituency of Labour Minister Gummanur Jayaram lacking a regular tahsildar. He demanded the government at least now post a regular tahsildar to resolve the problems of the people.

RULING party leaders in the district are in dire straits due to cancellation of welfare pensions. The administration has cancelled around 12,000 pensions claiming that they were ineligible and now ruling party leaders were facing protests and annoyance from the local people. The state government has also directed the sachivalayam officers to serve notices to those people, who were having their own lands or buildings and power consumption exceeds 300 units per month. Though these rules framed in 2019, now, they are being implemented from January 1.

Further, the District Collector KVN Chakradhar Babu said the administration has served notices to 12,000 people, who were ineligible to get pensions. He conducted a review with the officials in the city on Monday and said those eligible persons would be provided pension and asked the officials to upload fresh requests before January 5. He asked the staff to accept petitions from the ineligible pensioners and act as per rules. He said they were distributing Rs 80 crore to around 3 lakh pensioners every month. He said farmers should be provided seeds at 80 per cent of subsidy. He said Rs 2.5 crore have been released to the Panchayat Raj department for construction of YSR Village Clinics and asked the officials to start construction works immediately. Meanwhile, city legislator Dr P Anil Kumar Yadav directed the officials to verify pensions of 3,000 cancelled in the city limits. He conducted an emergency meeting at a wedding mall with the staff members of ward sachivalayam offices in the city on Monday after local population started agitations on cancelling welfare pensions.

He directed the officials to reconsider the cases if they are eligible. He collected the date of cancelled pensions in all 28 divisions in the city limits and reviewed with the staff members.

Further, TDP media coordinator Jaladanki Sudhakar said the number of people deleted from the pensioners' list was 5,000, rather than 3,000. Interacting with the media, he said elderly, disabled, widows and single women have been facing financial troubles due to cancellation of pensions. He alleged that majority TDP sympathisers are being targeted cancelling welfare pensions of them.

- The university officials are confident of securing A++ grade this time as against the A grade during the previous assessment five years ago
- During the 3-day visit, the team will critically evaluate various aspects before recommending the grading

SRI Padmavati Mahila Visvavidyalayam (SPMVV) is all set for the visit of the National Assessment and Accreditation Council team from Tuesday. It will help the University to showcase its potential in maintaining good academic standards and better amenities for the researchers and students apart from the best infrastructural facilities. The NAAC team will inspect the campus for three days from December 27 to 29 and make extensive assessments on various aspects before recommending the grading. The University got A-grade during the previous assessment while the Vice Chancellor Prof D Jamuna and her entire team has been working hard for the past few months and expressing confidence of achieving A++ this time. The grade being awarded by NAAC signifies the standards of the institution and enhances its reputation.

The University was established in 1983 by then Chief Minister NT Rama Rao with 10 faculties and 300 students. During the past 39 years, it has grown by leaps and bounds and earned a good reputation in the areas of research, innovation and academic standards. Now, it has 59 courses and has a student population of 4,000 besides 105 faculty members and 131 academic consultants. The SPMVV society for Innovation, Incubation and Entrepreneurship has been progressing well and became a feather in the cap of the University. Amid all its advantages, the SPMVV management has geared up for the NAAC team visit. University authorities said that during the visit of the team members to different departments, powerpoint presentations will be given by the heads concerned on the developments and academic enrichments during the last five years.

vice Chancellor Prof D Jamuna.

The team will also interact with the Alumni, research scholars and students and will look after the administrative aspects as well.

It will inspect the common facilities like the library, auditorium, hostels, labs and health centre.

A review will also be made on the physical facilities such as safety, counselling, skill development centres, rain water harvesting, waste management among other things.
