

CWC: 2 more chances for Virat Kohli in ongoing WC to equal Sachin's record

Kohli has a total of 49 ODI centuries to his name and will have at least two more opportunities at the ongoing ICC Men's Cricket World Cup to reach 50 and break the long-standing record of compatriot Sachin Tendulkar for the most ODI hundreds of all-time. Kohli's first opportunity to surpass Tendulkar's haul of hundreds comes against the Netherlands in Bengaluru on Sunday, where all eyes will be on the former skipper to see if he can claim outright ownership of the record. If Kohli fails to break the record against the Netherlands, then he will have at least one more opportunity to do so at the Cricket World Cup with India locked in for a semifinal contest against the fourth-placed team next week. Should India win that cut-throat clash they will book a spot in the World Cup final and Kohli could claim the record on the biggest stage of all at Narendra Modi Stadium in Ahmedabad in a decider against South Africa or Australia.

(UNI) Four of Kohli's 49 ODI eight fours and two mas-India's batsman Virat centuries to date have come at Cricket World Cups, while two have been notched at this tournament after the 35-yearold reached triple figures against South Africa and Bangladesh.

We take a look back at the quartet of World Cup hundreds that Kohli has managed thus far and eagerly await to see whether the India batsman can bring up a fifth and break Tendulkar's momentous record over the coming matches.

Kohli's first century at a Cricket World Cup came on unfamiliar territory in Mirpur as the then 22year-old combined with opener Virendar Sehwag to put Bangladesh to the sword.

Kohli came to the crease with India in control at 152/2 in the 24th over and Sehwag seeing them very well, and the pair combined for a 203-run partnership that catapulted the side to a massive total of 370/4.

While Sehwag was the main aggressor of the partnership as amassed a brilliant 175 from 140 balls, Kohli played an equally important hand as he smashed sive sixes in a superb individual innings.

Four years later and Kohli was at it again as he reached three figures for the second time at a World Cup and the second time against India's arch-rival Pakistan at Adelaide.

It was once again a controlled knock, as Kohli hit eight boundaries and got good support from Suresh Raina (74) and Shikhar Dhawan (73) to help propel India to a winning score of 300/7 after skipper MS Dhoni won the toss and elected to bat first.

There was no Sehwag around this time to deny Kohli the Player of the Match award as the India No. three gleefully accepted the honour after yet another brilliant in-

Kohli had already given hints of what lay ahead at this World Cup with half-centuries against Australia and Afghanistan early in the tournament, and the ultra-consistent right-hander brought up ODI century No.48 with a sensational against innings Bangladesh in Pune.

It was Kohli's first World

Cup century in a run chase and it was crafted superbly to ensure he brought up his milestone and the victory for his side with one massive strike over deep mid-wicket and into the stands.

Kohli finished his knock unbeaten with six fours and four huge sixes - the equal fifth most sixes he has hit in any ODI innings - as India remained undefeated at the World Cup and well on their way to the knockout stages. Kohli's most recent ODI century came on his 35th birthday as he rose to the occasion once again to show no weakness against South Africa's powerful bowling line-up. The Proteas tried six different bowlers against Kohli and they all came up empty as the India stalwart put on another show at the famous Eden Gardens ground to draw level with Tendulkar and help his side amass a massive total of 326/5.

Kohli got great support from Shreyas Iyer (77) through the middle overs and always seemed in control as India registered yet another win to ensure they finished the group stage on top of the stand-

Aus look to maintain momentum ahead of knockout stages

Pune, (UNI) Australia will be looking to maintain their momentum ahead of the knockout stages when they tackle a Bangladesh side already out of the race for the semifinal places here on Saturday.

Australia have now won six matches on the trot at the World Cup and will be keen to make it seven in a row prior to a cut-throat semifinal with South Africa next week.

That fixture might already be locked in, but don't expect Australia to ease up against Bangladesh as they will want to enter the winner-takes-all encounter with the Proteas with even more momentum than they currently have.

Openers David Warner and Travis Head missed out against Afghanistan last start and will be keen for a big score, while in-form spinner Adam Zampa has the lure of becoming the leading wicket-taker at the tournament if he can register another big haul.

While out of contention for a semi-final berth, Bangladesh can move closer to ensuring qualification for the ICC Champions Trophy

With fellow veteran Shakib Al Hasan ruled out for this match due to injury, it will be up to Litton Das to provide the leadership and direction required to guide the young Bangladesh around.

Das has had a relatively quiet World Cup campaign to date with just 248 runs at an average of 31 and the 29-yearold will be keen to finish on a high with a big score against the pow-

Wireless stump camera system wins global hackathon at ICC Men's CWC 2023

Mumbai, (UNI) The ICC and Nium, the global platform for on-demand money movement, on Friday announced the Next In Hackathon gamechanging winning idea by team StumpEye which will provide a groundbreaking wireless stump camera system offering in-depth batting and bowling analysis. The second edition, saw double the number of registrations that were recorded at the first Hackathon earlier in the year with more than 22,000 entries from 119 countries including Kenya, Nepal and Nigeria. The ICC and NIUM wanted to harness the world's brightest minds to create revolutionary ideas for the sport. The teams were challenged to develop ideas across three key areas: fan experience, grassroots cricket and performance analytics. In an exclusive event held at the Wankhede Stadium in Mumbai ahead of the Men's Cricket World Cup semi-final, the winning team StumpEye showcased a prototype that has the potential to transform the cricket experience offering an insightful perspective on the game for grassroots cricketers around the world, an ICC media release said. The wireless stump camera system will provide unique features: including bringing Decision Review System (DRS) technology to the lower levels of cricket, Coach Connect which will bridge the gap between offsite coaches and players/parents in grassroots cricket and Umpire's Mate which logs important elements of what happens in games. Additionally, the technology offers in-depth batting and bowling analysis. The Hackathon saw passionate shortlisted teams invited to present their concepts and creations to a panel of prestigious judges, Anil Kumble, Next In Hackathon Ambassador; Finn Bradshaw, ICC Head of Digital; Ankit Gupta, NIUM Chief Architect; Jeremiah Glodoveza -NIUM Senior VP, Brand & Communications and Rebecca Hopkins, STA Group CEO. In addition, there were representatives from reputable venture funds and sports organisations to support and provide industry expertise to the teams. Among the concepts subimproving the experience for fans, 35% centred on aiding grassroots cricket and 23% aimed to improve cricket performance through analytics. It's been a tremendous journey for us from an idea that sprung from a personal experience of coaching my son. We wish to sincerely thank the ICC and NIUM for providing us the platform, the opportunity and the chance to express our idea and help us take the big leap! Dreams do come true and ICC and NIUM have just helped us realize that."

ICC Head of Digital, Finn Bradshaw said, "At the ICC we are always looking for ways to inspire love of cricket. The ideas presented at Next In 2.0 delivered that in abundance. It was so inspiring to see the passion and talent on display from all the finalists. Congratulations to the winners StumpEye and thanks to our partners Nium for sharing in our vision and helping make this a reality." Jeremiah Glodoveza, NIUM Senior VP, Brand & Communications said, "The finalists for the Nium and ICC Next In Hackathon represent the best-of-the-best
