Teachers told to ensure more students appear in NMMS test

Collector Prasanna Venkatesh releasing NMMS test study material in Eluru on Friday

Noor Shaik

DISTRICT collector Prasanna Venkatesh instructed teachers to ensure more students from government schools appear and pass NMMS (National Means and Merit Scholarship) test conducted by the Central government. He released study material of the test prepared for free distribution among Class VIII students at Collectorate here on Friday.

Speaking on the occasion, collector said that the government introduced the scholarship as many merit students in rural areas have been dropping out from schools because of poverty.

The test passed students will be provided a scholarship of Rs 12,000 annually for four years. By availing this scholarship, the students can pursue their education up to Intermediate.

Teachers should create awareness among parents and students about the scholarship and help more students to make use of the scheme. He appreciated Democratic Progressive Reorganised Teachers Union for taking initiative in preparing the study material for poor students.

Parl panel for retaining IPC Sec 377, adultery provision

However, now, in the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, no provision for non-consensual sexual offence against male, female, transgender and for bestiality has been made. The committee feels that to align with the objectives stated in the BNS Statement of Objects and Reasons, which inter-alia highlights the move towards gender-neutral offences, it is mandatory to reintroduce and retain Section 377 of the IPC.

The committee, therefore, recommends to the government to include Section 377 of IPC in the proposed law. On IPC provision on adultery (Section 497), the committee noted that the Supreme Court struck it down as it violated Articles 14, 15, and 21 of the Constitution.

The court held that this law was archaic, arbitrary and paternalistic and infringed upon a woman's autonomy, dignity and privacy. "In this regard, the committee is of the view that the institution of marriage is considered sacred in Indian society and there is a need to safeguard its sanctity. For the sake of protecting the institution of marriage, this section should be retained in the Sanhita by making it gender neutral," it stated. The committee appreciates that the proposed Sanhita has raised the age of in gang rape law introduced sexual consent for married women from 15 to 18 years with certain exceptions. The panel welcomes the changes in relevant sections of IPC.

aggravated offence is in line with the position under the

The removal of age-based qualifiers to consider gang rape of any minor girl as an Protection of Children from Sexual Offences (POCSO) Act, it stated.

Further, the minimum sentence for gang rape of a minor girl under the Sanhita which is whole life sentence is greater than the minimum sentence under POCSO which is regular imprisonment for 20 years. For the sexual intercourse by employing deceitful means, the committee has noted minor typographical error which needs correction and recommends replacing the word 'marring' in the explanation to clause 69 with 'marrying'.

The committee also recommends addition of the words 'or marital status' after the words 'suppressing identity' in the explanation part of this clause, for the reason that there are a plethora of cases that have been decided by the judiciary wherein the accused has deceived multiple women into marrying him or having sexual intercourse with him without revealing that he is already married.

In case of the punishment for murder, the committee notes that the Sanhita includes a new provision for offence under clause 101(2) in line with the Supreme Court's recommendation. The issue regarding provision of an alternate punishment of seven years imprisonment to an accused under clause 101(2) was debated in detail in the committee. The committee recommends to the government that the punishment of seven years from the clause may be deleted. It is also recommended that opinion of the Attorney General and the Solicitor General of the country may be sought in this regard.

Punjab is "playing with fire" by deflecting the course of bills passed by a duly elected Assembly. It ordered the Governor to decide on the bills forwarded for his assent after being passed by the state legislature.

"We are governed by a parliamentary form of government where the government is accountable to the legislature. The Governor is a titular head of the state," it added.

The Supreme Court also aid that the Governor of the state of the supreme Court also are the supreme Co

The Punjab Raj Bhawan had objected over holding of the special session of the Assembly on June 19-20. The Sikh Gurdwaras (Amendment) Bill, 2023, the Punjab Universities Laws (Amendment) Bill, 2023, the Punjab Police (Amendment) Bill, 2023, and the Punjab Affiliated Colleges (Security of Service) Amendment Bill, 2023 are still awaiting the Governor's assent.

Based on legal advice, the Governor had said that calling of such a session was "illegal, against the accepted procedures and practice of the legislature, and against the provisions of the Constitution".

Further, the Governor has said the October 20-21 session, which was projected as an extension of the budget session, was "bound to be illegal" and any business conducted during it "unlawful".

Governor Banwarilal urohit has been involved in a running feud with the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) government led by Chief Minister Bhagwant Mann.

In its plea filed before the apex court, the Punjab government had said that the Governor cannot indefinitely sit over the bills as he has restricted powers under Article 200 of the Constitution and "unconstitutional inaction" has brought the entire administration to a "grinding halt".
